ANZ Head of Australian Economics, David Plank, commented:

Consumer confidence decreased 1.2% last week, driven by a 4ppt increase in the number of respondents who think it is a 'bad time to buy' a major household item. A possible reason for this could be the conclusion of End of Financial Year sales. Expectations of a further increase in the interest rate by the RBA at its meeting today could be another reason behind the dampened sentiment. Household inflation expectations rose 0.2ppt to 5.9% last week, exactly reversing its fall the week before.
