NORTHERN GOLD MINES.

The northern gold fields, which have been the most important mining districts in the State, are again in full swing. The amount of gold taken last year was over $20,000,000, and the present indications are that the production will be even greater this year. The gold is well distributed, and the mining districts are well supplied with machinery and labor. The prospect of continued prosperity is very encouraging.

THE FUTURE OF AUSTRALIA.

A report recently issued by the government of Australia states that the future of the country is secure. The report is based on a careful examination of the financial and industrial conditions of the country, and it concludes that the prospects of prosperity are good. The report recommends the development of the mineral resources of the country, and the establishment of new industries, as the means of promoting prosperity.

FUEL FOR THE FIGHT.

During the past month, the Legislative Council of Victoria has been busy in the consideration of the fuel question. The council has decided to allow the use of coal as a substitute for wood, and it has also decided to investigate the question of the production of fuel.

MEN OF THE MILLER.

The millers of Victoria are the backbone of the state. They are the people who work hard to produce the food that sustains the population. They are the men who know how to work the mill, and they are the men who know how to make the flour that we all eat.

GREAT FIRE IN GEELMKEN.

Great fire has broken out in the district of Geelmken, and the situation is very serious. The fire is said to have been caused by a lightning stroke, and it is spreading rapidly. The entire district is in danger, and the authorities are doing all they can to control the fire.

THE MILLER'S WORK.

The miller is a hard-working man, and his work is essential to the welfare of the community. He is the man who makes the bread that we all eat, and he is the man who keeps the stores stocked with provisions. He is a man of great skill and knowledge, and he is a man who is respected by all.

THE MILLER'S RIGHTS.

The miller is entitled to certain rights and privileges, and these are recognized by the law. The miller has the right to earn a living, and he has the right to work where he chooses. The miller is also entitled to certain benefits, such as a pension, or a share in the profits of the mill.

THE MILLER'S DUTIES.

The miller has certain duties to perform, and these are also recognized by the law. The miller is bound to use the mill for the purpose for which it was intended, and he is bound to keep it in good working order. The miller is also bound to pay the taxes levied on the mill, and he is bound to obey the laws of the land.

THE MILLER'S COMPLAINTS.

The miller may have certain complaints, and these are also recognized by the law. The miller may complain of the actions of the landlord, or he may complain of the conduct of the workmen. The miller may also complain of the quality of the flour, or he may complain of the price at which it is sold.

THE MILLER'S PROTECTION.

The miller is protected by the law, and he is entitled to certain remedies. If the miller is aggrieved, he may take proceedings against the landlord, or he may take proceedings against the workmen. The miller may also take proceedings against the manufacturer of the flour, or he may take proceedings against the person who sells it.

THE MILLER'S SUFFERINGS.

The miller may suffer from various causes, and these are also recognized by the law. The miller may suffer from a failure of the crop, or he may suffer from a fall in the price of flour. The miller may also suffer from a breach of contract, or he may suffer from a breach of trust.

THE MILLER'S REFORMS.

The miller is entitled to certain reforms, and these are also recognized by the law. The miller may demand the return of his property, or he may demand the payment of his wages. The miller may also demand the removal of the mill, or he may demand the substitution of another mill for it.