TELEVISION REMAINS MAIN SOURCE OF NEWS & CURRENT AFFAIRS NineMSN LEADS THE WAY IN INTERNET NEWS

Only $17 \%$ (down $1 \%$ since August 2004) of Australians aged 14 and over think the media is doing a "good" job "covering elections and controversial topics without bias", $52 \%$ (unchanged) think the media is doing a "fair" job, $27 \%$ (down 1\%) think the media is doing a "poor" job while $4 \%$ are undecided, a special Roy Morgan telephone survey on the image of the media finds.
In regards to "keeping Australians informed on subjects that Australians should know about", now only $28 \%$ (down $5 \%$ since August 2004) said the media was doing a "good" job compared to $24 \%$ (up 2\%) who think the media is doing a "poor job".
Television remains the main source of international and domestic news and current affairs: 53.5\% (down $2.5 \%$ ) say TV is their main source for Australian news and current affairs, with that figure rising to $62.5 \%$ (down $3.5 \%$ ) for international news and current affairs.
Newspapers remain the next popular medium, relied upon by $20.5 \%$ (down 1.5\%) for Australian news and $13.5 \%$ (down 3.5\%) for International news, and with Radio relied upon by $18 \%$ for Australian news and $11 \%$ for International news.
A growing number of Australians are relying upon the Internet as their main source of news and current affairs: $9.5 \%$ (up $6.5 \%$ ) for Australian news and $13 \%$ (up 8\%) for International news.
The Internet's growing popularity becomes even more apparent when the results are analysed by age: $15 \%$ of $14-17$ year olds, $11 \%$ of $18-24$ year olds, $16 \%$ of $25-34$ year olds and $11 \%$ of $35-49$ year olds said the Internet was their main source of Australian news and current affairs. This compares to just $6.5 \%$ of those aged $50-64$ and $1 \%$ of the $65+$ age group.
This trend was similar with International news and current affairs: $18 \%$ of Australians aged 14-17 named the Internet as their main source of International news and current affairs, $23.5 \%$ of 18-24 year olds, $19 \%$ of 25-34 year olds. This compares to $7.5 \%$ of the $50-64$ year olds and just $1 \%$ of those aged $65+$.

Gary Morgan says:

"Since the last time Roy Morgan conducted this survey in August 2004, the image of the media has declined. Now 28\% (down 5\%) think the media is doing a 'good' job 'keeping Australians informed on subjects that Australians should know about', $24 \%$ (up 2\%) think the media is doing a 'poor' job while $47 \%$ (up 4\%) think the media is doing a fair job.
"Also, $17 \%$ (down 1\%) think the media is doing a good job 'covering elections and controversial topics without bias', $27 \%$ (down 1\%) think the media is doing a poor job while $52 \%$ (unchanged) think the media is doing a 'fair' job.
"Television is still the main source of information for both Australian (53.5\%, down 2.5\%) and international ( $62.5 \%$, down 3.5\%) news and current affairs, however, the Internet (Australian news: $9.5 \%$, up $6.5 \%$; International news: $13 \%$, up $8 \%$ ) has experienced a significant rise in popularity, while there has been a decline in newspapers and radio as a main source of Australian and international news.
"NineMSN is clearly the most relied upon website for both Australian (18\%, up 7\%) and international ( $14 \%$, up 6\%) news and current affairs.
"The ABC is the most relied upon television outlet for domestic (45\%, up 5.5\%) and international (36\%, up 1.5\%) news. For Australian news and current affairs, Channel 7 (35\%, up 4.5\%) has overtaken Channel 9 (32\%, down 5.5\%). Similarly, Channel 7 (18.5\%, down 2.5\%) is relied upon by more people than Channel 9 ( $18 \%$, down $8.5 \%$ ) as an international news and current affairs outlet.
"Unlike other major newspapers, the Herald-Sun has not declined in popularity with 15.5\% (unchanged) of Australians saying they rely upon the paper for Australian news and current affairs and $13 \%$ (unchanged) for international news and current affairs. All other major newspapers experienced a marginal fall."

Specific Sources of Australian News & Current Affairs

The ABC was mentioned by $45 \%$ (up $5.5 \%$ ) as the TV channel specifically relied upon for Australian news and current affairs, followed by Channel 7 (35\%, up 4.5\%), Channel 9 (32\%, down 5.5\%), Channel 10 ( $19 \%$, down 1\%) and SBS (17\%, up 1.5\%).
The ABC ( $31 \%$, up $3 \%$ ) was also the most popular radio station for Australian news and current affairs, followed by Triple J ( $4.5 \%$, down $0.5 \%$ ), 3AW ( $4 \%$, unchanged), and Triple M ( $3.5 \%$, unchanged).
The Herald Sun was the most popular newspaper for Australian news and current affairs, mentioned by 15.5\% (unchanged) of Australians, followed by the Sydney Morning Herald (13\%, down 1\%), the Daily Telegraph (10.5\%, down 2\%), and The Age (10\%, down 0.5\%).

The most relied upon Internet site for Australian news and current affairs is NineMSN (18\%, up 7\%) followed by the ABC's online news outlet ( $6 \%$, up $3.5 \%$ ).

Specific Sources of International News & Current Affairs

The ABC (36\%, up 1.5\%) and SBS (32\%, up 1.5\%) are clearly the most relied upon TV stations for international news, with ABC Radio (28\%, up 1\%) clearly the most relied upon radio station.
The Herald Sun (13\%, unchanged) was mentioned by Australians as the newspaper most relied upon for international news, followed by the Sydney Morning Herald (11.5\%, down 2\%), The Age (10\%, down 0.5\%), and The Australian (9.5\%, down 2\%).
NineMSN (14\%, up 6\%) is clearly the most relied upon website for international news and current affairs, with the ABC's online news outlet (4.5\%, up 2.5\%) coming in second.
Time Magazine (3.5\%, down 2\%) and The Bulletin (2.5\%, down 2\%) were the magazines most relied upon for international news.
These are the main findings of an Australia-wide special Roy Morgan telephone survey conducted June 13/14, 2007, with 711 people aged 14 and over.

1. PERFORMANCE OF MEDIA

Respondents were told: "Thinking about the news and current affairs media in Australia, that is, newspapers, magazines, TV and radio shows which provide coverage, interpretation and opinion of news and current affairs. As I read a list of statements please tell me whether you think the media is doing a good, fair or poor job."

Covering elections and controversial topics without bias

Respondents were then asked: "Firstly, covering elections and controversial topics without bias. Is the media doing a good, fair or poor job?"

Analysis by age shows that, although still low, Australians aged 14-17 were more complimentary of the media, with $24 \%$ saying the media is doing a good job at "covering elections and controversial topics without bias". Thirty per cent of men say the media is doing a poor job at "covering elections and controversial topics without bias" compared to $25 \%$ of women.
