ANZ Economist, Sophia Angala, commented:

ANZ-Roy Morgan Australian Consumer Confidence rose 2.7pts last week to 88.4pts, its highest level since May 2022. The rise in confidence was seen across most subindices. Households' economic outlook over the next year declined 0.8pts, but is still within the narrow range of 77-83pts since October.

The 'time to buy a major household item' subindex ticked up 7.5pts as Black Friday related sales continued. This represented the subindex's largest weekly rise since Black Friday sales in 2023, to its highest level since May 2022.

Weekly inflation expectations dropped 0.2ppt to 4.8% last week, a pullback from the rise to 5.0% the week prior. This comes after the monthly CPI indicator showed headline inflation was 2.1% in October, well within the RBA's 2-3% target band. Though we should note that the components measured in the October monthly CPI indicator are skewed away from the main categories causing inflation.
